

Business Strategist and Event Organizer with The Athletic Diabetic

Social Enterprise Greenhouse is helping to find qualified applicants for The Athletic Diabetic. Please see the below for more information, or email talent@segreenhouse.org.

About: Arguably, the leading crisis on the global stage is diabetes. In 2014 there were 422 million diabetics around the world which led to 1.5 million deaths. The Athletic Diabetic succeeds in defeating diabetes using social pressure and interactions with teams of close friends, family, and our staff. Our society's goal is to save the lives of millions of affected people. The Athletic Diabetic will be fun and challenging. Each team will encourage their diabetic person to exercise, follow a proper diet, and network with others outside of the immediate group. Our goal is to make the member actually want to join others each day and have a good time.

Description of Job: There are 29.1 million of us diabetics, and 86 million pre-diabetics, in the US alone. Economically, this means that for every three dollars spent by Medicare, one of those supports our diabetes epidemic. I am addressing this problem with my project The Athletic Diabetic. I am looking for partners who want to aid in building my solution to this phenomenon, either by helping to launch my business, develop our app, or organize Meetup and other networking events. Those with medical connections or associated with a diabetic are particularly welcomed.

Qualifications: The top qualifications we need are a true passion for addressing global challenges and a need to help others. I am a diabetic myself, so those associated with anyone like me are especially requested to reply. We need people with experience in building social enterprises, organizing social events, experienced in gaining SBIR funding, and game development. Bachelors degree.
